Tells at Columbia Theater in Travelogue of World's Most Finely Finished Landscape.

Having carried his audiences through wild and unkempt sections of the world in previous travelogues. Burton Holmes inaugurated at the Columbia Theater last! evening a course in what he calls the world's most finely finished landscapes with his pictures and descriptions of England. Just as he has devoted his former efforts to telling how the other half of the world, of which the average person has no idea, lives and works and plays, in this course, it is to be his +ndeaver to tell how the half from which America got its start is living, in many instances just as it lived when the original Americans started from their foreign homes, with the addition of the imion has wrought.
